StationMD

The Telehealth Solution Serving Individuals With Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities

Why StationMD?

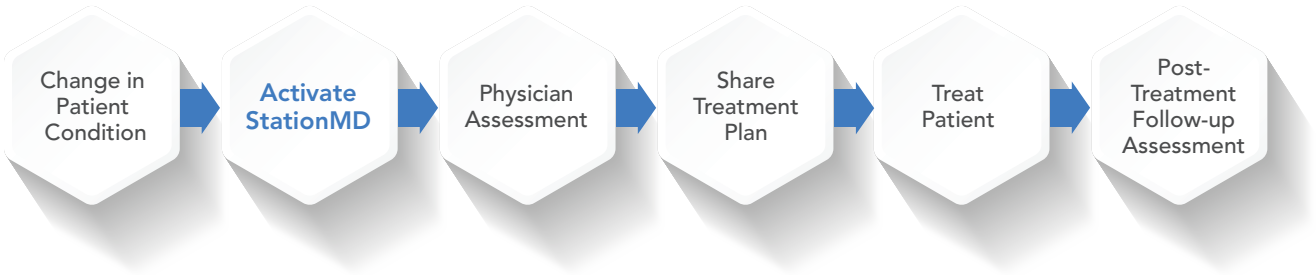
StationMD delivers superior medical care to people with intellectual and/or developmental disabilities (I/DD) in their home settings employing telehealth. Our physicians have a special commitment to caring for people with I/DD and have dedicated training in this area. Using our telehealth solution, people with I/DD have access to our specially-trained ER doctors from the comfort of their home.

At StationMD, we have successfully reduced the costs and stress associated with unnecessary ER transfers and hospital stays. These savings impact payers, residential facilities, providers, and family members.

Providing High-Quality Care in a Stable Environment

The trauma of transfer and exposure to infection aside, the ER can be particularly frightening and disorienting for individuals with I/DD. The daily routine of meals, activities, sleeping, and medications is disrupted as well.

How It Works



More than Just Telemedicine

Between our own patient portal and EHR documentation system, client educational webinars, dedicated technical support and training teams, and an AfterCare team, all of our services come with more than just telemedicine visits with our doctors.

In addition to the typical medical issues, for COVID-19 related concerns, we can assist with determining who needs to be tested, who needs hospital care, and who needs to isolate / quarantine.
